

Amendments to the Specification:

A substitute specification is provided. The priority specification was drafted in German. Later, a literal English translation of the priority specification was submitted in the USPTO. This literal translation was difficult to read. As a result, the amendments to the translation to improve its readability were extensive. Still, no new matter was added.